Guildford Town Centre Surprises Guaranteed

Aldershot's Rachel is Guildford's very own official MONOPOLY champ!

She is from another county but on Saturday she played MONOPOLY like she was from another world.

Aldershot's Rachel Kellett, 29, was on Saturday (18th February 2017) crowned Guildford's very own official MONOPOLY champ. The event attracted players from all over the South of England.

Rachel, a web developer, beat 15 other hopefuls to land the title at White Lion Walk Shopping Centre. The event was played on the brand new MONOPOLY game for Guildford. Rachel won a signed board, along with £200 worth of shopping vouchers. She vowed to go on a clothes shopping spree at the centre.

Jamie Lamont from WINNING MOVES UK, developers of the game under official license from Hasbro, watched her build up an unrivalled MONOPOLY property empire (with the greens and the oranges set her leading asset) and declared:

"Rachel is one of the best MONOPOLY players I have ever seen, if not the very best."

The game features in total 28 Guildford landmarks replacing the likes of Mayfair and Park Lane from the London original. Landmarks that star on the board include the Cathedral, Castle, The University of Surrey, White Lion Walk, G Live and Guildford Spectrum.

Steve Cotney, Centre Manager at White Lion Walk, said:

"We are incredibly proud to have staged the MONOPOLY Guildford Championships. The original London edition has been played for years and is loved by every generation, so having the game produced specially for Guildford has been a real coup for the town."
