

Learn how to make a Candle at White Lion Walk's 'Candle workshop'

On Monday 30th May, shoppers who visited White Lion Walk shopping centre in Guildford were invited to take part in a free candle-making workshop.

From 11am to 4pm, shoppers of all ages created their very own bees wax candle to take home with them. The workshop was held as part of White Lion Walk's 'Bee Awareness' campaign, as the centre now plays host to its very own bee apiary on the roof. According to the nation's beekeepers, the English honeybee has been in serious decline over recent years. In light of this, and in an effort to help the environment, White Lion Walk took the decision last year to introduce a new bee apiary on to the roof of the shopping centre.

Centre Manager, Steve Cotney, commented: "We wanted to try and help reverse the decline of bees by providing a safe, secure and secluded environment for a bee apiary, using redundant space on the roof of White Lion Walk. We hope that the candle workshop will prove a success and, whilst being a fun activity, raise people's awareness of the plight of our honeybees."
