

WHITE LION WALK

Guildford Town Centre Surprises Guaranteed

Keep your eye on the ball at White Lion Walk and help raise money for the Everyman Charity

On Saturday 12th June, the World Cup truly kicked off as England played their first match against the USA. In celebration White Lion Walk Shopping Centre put together a 'Keep your eye on the ball' event in the hope of raising money for a charity that should be close to every man's heart – The Everyman Charity, which provides crucial research and awareness of prostate and testicular cancer.

From 11am – 4pm a football face painter was on hand and for just a small donation, shoppers had their face transformed into anything from England flags to mini footballs.

The main highlight of the day was the Centre's silent auction which featured an array of incredible football memorabilia including a signed picture from John Terry, a pair of Michael Owen's football boots signed by the man himself, a 1966 world cup book signed by Geoff Hurst, a family tour of Wembley Stadium and much more.

Centre Manager of White Lion Walk, Steve Cotney, commented: "The Everyman Charity provides crucial research and support and with their help thousands of lives can be saved every year. We are hoping that our 'Keep your eye on the Ball' event will help raise some of the vital funds the charity needs to continue their incredible work for men all over the country. What's more with its football theme we hope that our shoppers get into the football mood ready for the big game in the evening."
